Bullfrogs & Butterflies: God Is My Friend (1978) is the first of four cds in the series Bullfrogs and Butterflies. The Agapeland website says this cd features: Barry McGuire, George Banov, Jim & Dee Patton, Andy Davis, Kathy Salerno, Sherry Saunders, Frank Hernandez, Mary Gross, Theretha Boswell, Ane Weber, Ron Krueger. Songs on the album include Welcome To Agapeland, Good Morning, This Is The Day, Rainy Day Song, Kid Talk, I Like Knowing God, My Hands Belong To You, Friends, Practice Makes Perfect, Bullfrogs and Butterflies, Noah, and Youre

So Good To Me. Throughout the songs there are some narrative bits. Welcome To Agapeland is the cheerful opening song which transports the listeners to a cartoon-like world of love, peace, and goodwill. (I know this because the record album included illustrations for all the songs.) 5 stars Good Morning continues the cheerful spirit of Welcome To Agapeland and unless its used as a mean-spirited wake-somebody-else-up song...is quite enjoyable :) 5 stars This Is The Day is a softer, slower song with lyrics taken straight from Scripture. 4 stars Rainy Day Song is one of my favorites. Its message is that the weather (rain or shine) doesnt matter since Christians have a different sort of son shine. (Corny pun, yes, but its still fun in its own little way.) 5 stars Kid Talk is another one of my favorites. This song is a conversation between two kids: a boy and a girl. The message of the song...is that everyone...kids and adults...can have a relationship with God. 5 stars I Like Knowing God is sung by a spirited bunch of kids. It compares the normal kid activities with the more spiritual ones. Cute song. 4 stars. My Hands Belong To You lacks the spirit and energy of the rest of the album, its more of a slow-down-and worship song. 4 stars. Friends was the first song on the second side of the record/cassette; so it begins off with a cheerful Welcome Back message. Its an upbeat song that is very catchy. 5 stars. Practice Makes Perfect is an endearing song about a young girl whose piano playing is less than perfect...and her determination to keep on trying. 5 stars. Bullfrogs and Butterflies is a very fun song; its hard not to sing along with this great song. 5 stars. Noah is a very fun story-song (much better than the classic Arky Arky) that, as you can guess, tells the story of Noah. This song is fun to clap and dance too. Although I spent my entire childhood listening to this album, it wasnt until recently that I noticed how much of a disco-beat this song had! 5 stars. Youre So Good To Me is the last song on the album. It is in a way a wind-down song. Its probably my least favorite on the album...although its not a bad song. 3 stars. I grew up listening to BULLFROGS AND BUTTERFLIES: God is My Friend. It was a wonderful album then, and Im glad to see it has been released on cd. The music will probably seem dated to some audiences, but if you grew up in the late seventies to early eighties...these songs will transport you back. (A trip Im quite happy to make some days.)
